

Milwaukee Art Museum

Overview

The Milwaukee Art Museum, located on the shores of Lake Michigan in Wisconsin, is one of the largest art museums in the United States. It houses a collection of over 30,000 works, ranging from antiquity to contemporary art. The museum is best known for its striking architecture and dedication to enriching the cultural life of the region.

Architecture

One of the museum's most iconic features is the Quadracci Pavilion, designed by the renowned Spanish architect Santiago Calatrava. Completed in 2001, it features the Burke Brise Soleil—a movable, wing-like sunscreen that opens and closes, symbolizing both motion and innovation. This structure has become a symbol of Milwaukee itself.

Collection

The museum's collection includes European and American paintings, modern and contemporary works, prints, drawings, and decorative arts. Notable artists represented include Georgia O'Keeffe, Pablo Picasso, and Claude Monet. The museum also emphasizes Midwestern artists, connecting global art with local creativity.
